To Whom It May Concern:

After almost six years of experience in various professional settings, I am looking for a full time position as a Web Designer and Developer. I am teachable; I grasp concepts quickly and use them efficiently. I have always been interested in design and development and would love to work for a company where I could continue to grow and refine my skills as well as produce great work for the company. My style of design is diverse; it is fun and creative but always clean.

My work is consistently focused on the client. I value client relationships and am able to manage projects in a way that produces quality assurance and client satisfaction. My commitment to being client-oriented while overseeing staff has led me to adapt and work efficiently to produce unique web development and design.

I would love to work within a creative environment that will be both challenging and rewarding. I want to have fun with my job. A good fit for me would be a company that will help me grow individually as well as within a team. I would be delighted to discuss my work further with anyone who is interested. I can be easily contacted by phone or email. Thank you so much for your time and consideration.

Sincerely,

Jonathan Koch
